Body discovered; ID pending

Lt. Rick Saint-Blancard gives an update of Randall Russ during a press conference at KSP Post 6 in Dry Ridge.

Murder suspect claims Randall Russ is dead

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

One man is charged with murder and another suspect is wanted by police in connection with a body discovered Oct. 1 in Fleming County.

The body, which has not been positively identified, is believed to be that of Randall Russ, a 54-year-old Dry Ridge man who has been missing for nearly two months.

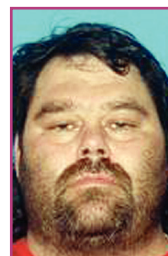

Charles Black, 50, of Hillsboro was arrested and charged with murder, two counts of tampering with physical evidence and theft by unlawful taking auto-over $500 in connection with the investigation.

Black is lodged in the Mason County Detention Center.

Kentucky State Police in Morehead is looking for Kevin L.

Charles Black

Kevin Howard

KSP are looking for Kevin Howard. Anyone with information should call KSP in Morehead at 606-784-4127 or KSP in Dry Ridge at 859-428-1212.

Howard, 37 of Owingsville.

Howard is also wanted on charges of murder, tampering with physical evidence and theft by unlawful taking auto-over $500.

Black told detectives that he and Howard were with Russ at his residence around Aug. 15 in Fleming County.

Black alleges that Howard told him to go next door to a neighbor's house for awhile.

About 45 minutes later, Howard yelled for Black to return to the residence, according to a search warrant affidavit.

"When Mr. Black returned to his residence, he observed Mr. Russ to be gagged and bound at the feet and legs," the affidavit states. "Mr. Black advised that Mr. Russ was lying in the back bedroom and Mr. Russ was dead. Mr. Black felt for a heartbeat and did not feel one."

The two men then carried Russ' body into the back of Russ' vehicle and drove it to Ringos Grange City Road, along the river.

Dump truck driver dies in train collision

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

A 52-year-old Williamstown man was killed Oct. 3 after a train struck a dump truck he was driving in Boone County.

Steven Hess, who was working for Crupper Transport of Williamstown, was driving a 2011 Kenworth dump truck when it collided with a Norfolk Southern Railroad train on Old Lexington Pike near U.S. 25 (Dixie Highway) in Walton.

Steven Hess

The train was traveling northbound approaching the intersection as Hess proceeded through the intersection onto the railroad tracks, according to the Boone County Sheriff's Office.

The train struck the truck on the passenger side, causing the dump truck to flip onto its top into a nearby embankment.

Preliminary investigation by the sheriff's office indicates the train crossing signals were properly working at the time of the collision.

The sheriff's office said It is unknown why Hess proceeded through the intersection despite the train crossing warning signals.

Hess was transported to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Florence, before quickly being transferred to University of Cincinnati Medical Center.

Firefighter's home gutted by fire - On the crisp Oct. 1 morning around 10 a.m. fire broke out in the home of Robert McPheron on Hopewell Road. Firefighters from Crittenden, Dry Ridge Fire Department and Piner-Fiskburg battled the blaze. Crittenden Fire Chief Lee Burton said the fire started in a back room and was electrical. "While the back room was a total loss and the loss on the contents was significant the structure remains sound," Burton said. The family did have insurance on the home and plans on rebuilding and living in the home before winter. "It's just unfortunate. McPheron was a former firefighter and even to those that are trained fires still happen," Burton said. The Grant County Chapter of the American Red Cross assisted the family. Helping Hands needs help

By Jamie Baker-Nantz
Editor

Helping Hands could use some help.

Wil Jones, president of Helping Hands, said food donations are at an all time low and the community's food pantry is having trouble keeping up with demand.

"Donations are down all over," Jones said. "The Free Store Food Bank, Master Provisions, Matthew 25 are all under stress."

Jones said that Helping Hands assists up to 200 families on the monthly food distribution day along with as many as 60 families from the local food pantry that Helping Hands operates.

Helping Hands sponsors Food Distribution Day on the third Thursday of the month when a truck from the Free Store Food Bank in Cincinnati brings enough food to feed 200 families.

Helping Hands pays $1,250 a month for the food.

The local food pantry is stocked with donations from local food drives, such as one conducted by the post offices, local schools, churches and organizations, but when donations are down, Helping Hands purchases food to supplement the shortage.

WORTH REPEATING:

“Truth is not determined by majority vote.” - Doug Gwyn

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Who is in your wallet (or back yard)?

I’ve followed elections since I was a wide-eyed eager student in Darlene Wymer’s civics class at Walton-Verona High School.

Ms. Wymer challenged us to think. She challenged us to question. She challenged us to get involved and get educated about candidates and issues. She told us that it was not only a responsibility but a privilege to be able to vote.

I took her words to heart and the day I turned 18, I proudly registered to vote. I didn’t event get upset when just a few short weeks later, I was called to jury duty. (For the record, jurors are not just selected from voter registration rolls, but also from property records, etc.)

In case you haven’t heard there is an election coming up on Nov. 4. There are races for Kentucky’s Supreme Court all the way down to city council and constable.

You may be asking, “why should I bother to drive to a polling place to vote, with gas over $3 per gallon, when it doesn’t make a difference any way?”

That is where you are wrong. I believe that every vote counts and every election is important. I especially believe that this election is important because voters will be choosing who will be leading our county and city government for the next four years.

With no incumbent running for judge-executive, a new judge will be seated come January 2015. The fiscal court, which is composed of three magistrates from each magisterial district, could also be brand new after this election.

That is both exciting and scary for our community because it means there are going to be new ideas, challenges and hopefully solutions that will be taking our county into the future.

What many citizens may not realize is that local laws and rules, as well as how your local tax dollars are spent, are decided by these very people who are elected to fiscal court and city councils.

I think most of us get busy with our lives and don’t always pay attention to what our elected officials are doing, at least not until they get in our wallet or back yard. What I mean by that is there’s probably only a handful of people who’ve ever attended a fiscal court or city council meeting unless you got wind that there was a tax increase looming or a road or bridge closing or there were no fire/police officers to respond to your emergency and then you’d get really interested in what the local leaders were doing

Jamie
BAKER-NANTZ

Editor

ing and saying.

That’s why it is critical to not only get out and vote on Nov. 4, but to educate yourself about who to vote for. Someone should not be elected simply because they have more family than their opponent or they dress better.

It’s not a popularity contest, but should be about who is the best person for the job. Who is going to spend tax dollars with the majority of the people’s best interest at heart and who is going to lead during tough times and not be afraid of doing what is not necessarily popular, but what is best for our community.

In an effort to better educate the public, the Grant County News will publish profiles of candidates in next week’s paper. All candidates were sent a questionnaire and asked to fill it out and return it so their responses could be published.

Sadly, many of the candidates didn’t take the time to even fill out the two-page document and return it, so they won’t be included in that section.

The News, along with the Grant County Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring a “Meet The Candidates” forum at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 16 at Williamstown High School. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

I’m also interested in knowing what questions the public wants to hear the candidates answer at the forum. Send questions to me at jbakernantz@grantky.com by 5 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 14.

The News will also be printing stories from candidates for judge-executive, fiscal court, jailer and Dry Ridge mayor in issues prior to the election.

I’ll say it again because I don’t think you can say it enough – voting is a responsibility and a privilege and if you don’t get involved in the political process and exercise that freedom you don’t have any room at all to complain.

A WORD FROM OUR READERS...

Hammons a person of moral character

Wanda Hammons for Magistrate in Grant County!

I have never seen someone work so hard and care so much about her community. The passion you see and hear in her voice when she communicates is inspiring. It just confirms to me that she is the perfect person for the position. Not everyone can take the time needed to do the job. She takes that time and does a great job.

We had two signs on our road that needed replaced. She took care of it so fast, I couldn’t believe it. I thought for sure it would take a while. Her follow up is impeccable.

I have known her for many years. She is a person of high moral character and strong work ethics. Her whole family has been a blessing to know. She truly loves the people of Grant County.

It’s been a joy watching her activity in the community; hard physical labor in the community garden, working on courthouse landscaping, helping kids with life challenges, visiting senior citizen homes, road projects and so much more.

She takes the time to communicate what is being accomplished, listens to what your concerns are and explains how things can/have and will be improved. I have all confidence that we are in good hands with Wanda Hammons.

Hammons keeps county running smoothly

Hi, my name is Carrie Kramer. I want to let everyone know what a wonderful person Wanda Hammons is. She is a great candidate for 2nd district fiscal court. She has done wonderful work around the county.

I personally feel she goes above all to keep our county running beautifully and smoothly, not only for all the hard work throughout the county but the work and support she has done for the local girl scouts here in Grant County.

She is always willing to help and has shown our girls that anything in life is possible and to follow their dreams.

She puts a smile on these girls faces. So as for Troop 1831 and I, we would like to see Wanda Hammons re-elected.

Thank you Wanda for the girls in Troop 831.

Carrie Kramer
Williamstown

Hammons cares for community, always helps

I want to encourage everyone to get out and vote on Nov. 4, 2014 for Wanda Hammons for the 2nd district magistrate.

Hammons has proven to all of us that she is the best candidate for the job for our county.

Hammons work ethic, experience and her leadership shows that she can get the job done for our county.

Hammons has been serving our county for years as an EMT. She cares about her patients just like she cares for the community and county.

Hammons also has the experience to be able to go to Frankfort and help our county to get the grants and finances to continue to help the community and county to continue to grow.

I have known Wanda Hammons all my life and she has always been there to help her county.

Please come out and vote for Wanda Hammons for 2nd district magistrate on Nov. 4, 2014. Vote for Wanda Hammons the best person for the job with the experience and someone that will get the job done.

Wanda Hammons for 2nd district. I will be supporting her for 2nd district magistrate.

DOWN AND DIRTY

Stray seed, odd fruit

Over the past couple of weeks I have had a half dozen people come up to me with stories of amazing vegetables appearing in their yards and gardens. My mother, for one, has what she calls a French squash growing by the sidewalk around a newly planted serviceberry.

I don't think it is the same French squash served up in a fancy restaurant but the fruit does have the small round shape that many of the gourmet squashes possess. I hated to break it to her, but likely the stray seedling came from last year's hybrid crop. She worked compost into the planting hole before the serviceberry was planted...she puts her kitchen and garden debris into her compost pile.

The funny thing about stray seedlings is that they usually produce fruit that is a breed unto itself. We are so used to growing hybrid vegetables and therefore accustomed to a certain size and shape of fruit; anything that is smaller or larger throws us for a loop.

I met a woman at the fair who brought in a bag of tiny tomatoes. She said the plants are popping up here and there in the garden, not like anything she has ever planted. There is a variety of teeny-tiny tomatoes called red currant tomatoes, but likely her diminutive crop is a cherry tomato hybrid from years past that has reverted back to the wild, so to speak.

Our choices in vegetable plants can be categorized in a couple of different ways: the species, which is the basic classification where the general characteristics of the plant and its fruit are apparent; the named cultivars, which are plant varieties of the species that originated and continue to persist under cultivation; and hybrids, which are the offspring of two different cultivated varieties.

Jeneen WICHE
Weekend Gardener

Hybridization

The knowledge of hybridization has brought us better food and ornamental value with improved characteristics in plant material. New varieties often have a different growth or flowering habit; resistance to drought, disease, heat or cold; fruit may have increased yield, taste or shelf-life; flowers have better fragrance, different colors or longevity on the vine or in the vase. Hybridization can also, however, improve one characteristic at the expense of another, for example, shelf-life over taste.

Plants can hybridize in nature but they often revert back to the qualities of the parents if they are not looked after.

That's why the cherry tomatoes are so small and mom has a "French squash" in her front yard. For commercial purposes hybridization occurs in a controlled environment, by the hand of humans. Seedlings from hybrid plants vary. Some are stable and will be true to the hybrid directly from seed. These fertile hybrids can effectively reproduce for several generations before they begin to revert back to the qualities of the parent plants, becoming their own individual like human children.

Have you ever seen the term F1 hybrid in a seed catalogue or on a label?

An F1 distinction means the hybrid is a first generation offspring from two parent plants. Heirloom vegetables come true from seed (referred to as open-pollinated) but the F1 distinction means that it must be created anew each year by crossing the same parent plants. If this plant reseeds the following year do not expect the same qualities in the vegetable as the original variety that you selected. It is, indeed, the child of two parents, different but similar, like we are to our own parents.

I have areas in the garden where cherry tomatoes come up every year on their own, it's great. They are always healthy plants (despite being neglected because they are out of place) that produce well, so well, in fact, that enough fall to the ground, rot and insure another crop for the following year.

FAITH & VALUES

RELIGIOUS VIEWS

Emotions can be a roller coaster at times

There are times when I feel like that I am on cloud nine and can't help but hum the theme song from "The Greatest American Hero" (you know, the "believe it or not, I'm walking on air...") 'But, then while in mid song, for no substantial reason (like being out of coffee!!! though some might argue that) my emotions take a tail spin and then I am in the Eeyore mode singing the "Gloom, Despair and Agony on me" song from Hee Haw. Now, let's apply this to our faith.

If my faith is based solely upon my feelings, then I have gone from heaven to hell and back numerous times each day. There are days when I feel like God loves me, there are days when I feel He is not there. There are days when I feel like "all things work together for the good of those who love God and are called according to His purpose," and then there are days when I feel like the old Freddy Fender song "Wasted Days and Wasted Nights." (I know, too many song references.)

To say it simply, there are days I feel saved and there are days I don't feel saved. There are days when I feel God's love for me and then there are days I don't feel loved at all. There are days when I feel like I can reach out and touch God right next to me and then there are days I feel like He is a zillion miles away. And when that happens, I have to ignore the feelings and go back to what I know to be true. It's always important that for every feeling that you make sure it is grounded in truth.

Feelings are important but they can't be the basis for your faith because not only are they so fickle and inconsistent, but they can also be easily manipulated (put soft music behind anything and speak softly and instant emotion: Bam!) That's why we can't panic and overreact when our emotions go haywire. It's important to always seek the truth to see if that emotion is valid or not.

fine. I ran downstairs to my other daughter's room and she was fine. I then checked each room and there was no fire. I even checked on the dog...and he was still fast asleep (Keep up the good work, Bandit!).

When my smoke detector went off my first reaction, of course, was fear and shock because I assumed there was a fire. This makes sense because that's what the alarm is there for.

It is meant to notify me when there is a fire in my house. The problem is there was no fire. There was only a bad connection in the wiring. Now, imagine if I had called 911 right away, got the entire fire department at my house, woke up all of Barnes road at 3 a.m. (well, everyone except my dog... good job, Bandit!) and started throwing my valuables out the window to save them. What if I automatically began spraying the whole house down with my fire extinguisher and water hose? Before I panicked, I needed to determine the truth. And the truth was, that the alarm that was there to make me aware of trouble, was simply a false alarm.

Determining the truth saved me from making a big mistake that day. What does this have to do with anything? Our feelings are a lot like a smoke detector. They can tell us things at times but we need to make sure that the alarm is grounded in truth and it is not a false alarm.

So when you feel like God is not there, that He doesn't love you or that You are not truly saved...go back to what God's word says. Base your feelings on His truth and eventually your feeling will catch up. There is a poem, and I don't know who wrote it. It goes, "Truth, Faith, and Feeling were sitting on the wall. Feeling fell off and grabbed on to Faith, pulling Faith down. Truth grabbed Faith and held Faith up. Eventually, Truth pulled Faith back up which then eventually brought Feeling back up."

NORMAN A. CASE, DC

Williamstown UMC to host Fall Fest Oct. 18 in Crittenden

By Jamie Baker-Nantz
Editor

The Williamstown United Methodist Church plans to show Crittenden how to have fun when they host Fall Fest in Crittenden later this month.

From noon to 4 p.m. on Oct. 18, residents of Crittenden are invited to come out to the vacant lot in front of Harvesters Subdivision on Violet Road for free food, inflatables, games and a prayer tent.

“We plan to have something for everyone and this should be a nice time for families,” said Robin Webster, a member at WUMC.

The Fall Fest idea came about as the church plans to establish another Methodist church in Grant County.

Roger Wallace, a Crittenden resident, has been attending WUMC for 20 years, but he wanted to try and offer something closer to home.

Ten years ago, Wallace became interested in preaching and started working as a lay minister at a Methodist church close to Harrison County.

“The district was interested in starting a new church in Crittenden and since I lived there it was a natural fit for me,” Wallace said.

Grant County has two Methodist churches in Williamstown and Jonesville with a third, Carter's Chapel United Methodist in nearby Demossville. They are governed and financially supported by separate districts.

The process to establish another Methodist church in the northern part of the county began back in July, when members in Williamstown began to meet in small groups to discuss the possibilities.

“Our focus is to transform the lives of people in Grant County through Jesus Christ,” Wallace said. “That occurs when you build relationships.”

Methodist church across Kentucky in August participate in Impact Kentucky, a day to do outreach. WUMC members conducted a prayer walk at Crittenden-Mt. Zion Elementary. They then went to Harvesters and began asking residents if they needed help doing yard work.

“We were able to help a couple of families and it felt good,” said WUMC Pastor Barry Robinson. “People couldn't believe we were helping just because. Some tried to pay us.”

WUMC developed a relationship in the area following the tornado that swept through Crittenden in March 2012 when church members assisted with cleanup efforts.

Part of WUMC's outreach in Crittenden includes establishing a laundry ministry at Dalton Plaza where from 4 to 7 p.m. on the third Sunday of the month, the church will provide quarters and free laundry products.

“It will be for anyone that shows up during that time. We want it to be a monthly outreach project,” Wallace said.

While it may be a long time before an actual Methodist church is built in the Crittenden area, the WUMC members hope by November to secure a location to begin a bible study and have a meal.

The name for the new ministry will be “Table of Grace.” “This fits with our theology because the table is open to everyone and everyone is welcome to come,” Wallace said. “No matter what a person has done in their life, people are welcome at God's table. Everyone is welcome through Christ's love.”

For WUMC, starting a ministry like this is a chance to bless others.

“We're not trying to compete with any other church or organization, but when you've been given much, much is expected of you. We see that we are the hands and feet of Christ,” said Robinson.

“We're more than about going out and preaching God's word. It is about meeting needs and gaining trust to share God's love,” Wallace said. “We just want to continue to work and help people when we can.”

Police said Dennis Peare was able to talk with them at the accident scene and believe there may have been internal injuries from the accident that ultimately led to his death.

“We still have not determined a cause of death,” said Grant County Sheriff Chuck Dills.

Dills said the Peares were wearing seatbelts, but Delaney was not.

“It doesn't appear that alcohol or drugs were involved in this accident, but we are waiting on toxicology reports, so it is still under investigation,” Dills said.

Delaney had a driving permit, but Dills said she didn't have a licensed driver with her at the time of the accident, which could lead to charges being filed for operating a vehicle without a licensed driver, as well as other charges.

Grant County Sheriff's Deputy Tony Stiger is conducting the investigation.

Two other accidents over the weekend also sent local residents to the hospital.

A Dry Ridge man, Michael McHugh, 39, was flown by helicopter from an accident at 2:59 p.m. on Oct. 4 on Dry Ridge – Mt. Zion Road.

According to police reports, McHugh, driving a 2005 Volkswagen, hit a 2000 Chevrolet driven by Larry McClure, 63, of Dry Ridge, head on. McClure and a passenger, Darryl Crase, were not injured in the wreck.

McHugh remains in the hospital. This accident was investigated by Trooper Eric Bowman.

Kentucky State Police also investigated a four-car collision which occurred at 5:31 p.m. on Oct. 5 on Dixie Highway near the Coach Stop.

The crash involved a hit and run driver driving a 1993 Ford, Gregory Littleton, 58, of Demossville driving a 1992 Dodge, Tina L. Robinson, 27, of Burlington, driving a 2000 Daewoo and Ricky L. Hunter, 48, of Dry Ridge, driving a 2008 Ford.

Trooper Ryan Roessler investigated this accident.

Learning in a digital world: Williamstown bus goes Wi-Fi

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

Learning in a digital world isn't just for the classroom anymore for Williamstown students.

The school district now has two wireless buses that allow Internet access, opening the possibilities for learning on the go.

“The bus provides wireless access for students to be used as an extension of the classroom,” said Molly McComas, transportation and grounds director for Williamstown Independent Schools. “It can not only allow an entire class traveling to a field trip destination to preview exhibits, engage in lessons or research related topics, but it also can allow our vocational students and student athletes time to work on other studies while in transit to their destination.”

The first wireless bus was secured through a RC Durr grant written by McComas and Tammy Steele, district technology and chief information officer, about two years ago.

The district spent the first year getting all the equipment approved, ordered and timed to be installed since school had already started, said McComas.

The grant also provided 10 iPads to add to another group of iPads that can be checked out for the wireless bus.

With a focus on technology, the district agreed to pay for a second bus to be equipped to have Wi-Fi as well as purchasing 10 Microsoft Surface tablets to accommodate different computer platforms for students.

“Students can also use their own personal device after they have taken the course to receive their digital driver's license,” McComas said. “Personal devices will still run through the school proxy to safeguard against inappropriate content.”

Williamstown High School social studies teacher Paradise

Forbes, who uses iPads with her students daily in her classes, already has plans for using the wireless buses.

The first field trip will have the students go to the state capital, where Rep. Brian Linder, R-Dry Ridge, has invited the class to sit in on an education committee meeting this fall.

“As we travel from the school in our amazing Wi-Fi bus, students will be researching the agenda items/ bills to be discussed by the committee members,” Forbes said. “Prior to this, students have created Kentucky Bill Watch accounts so that they are current on the status of education bills. As well, students will choose a bill to support and will try on our bus ride to tweet contact with authors and supporters. The Wi-Fi bus provides for an entire class period to take place as we travel. That is simply amazing.”

Forbes second field trip will involved taking her World Civilization students to the Cincinnati Art Museum and the Cathedral Basilica as part of the class' Renaissance unit.

While riding the bus, Forbes said the students will get to see the artwork on their computers and other devices that they will soon see in person.

Forbes said the students have fortunately had the opportunity to be immersed in technology.

When the school board offered the opportunity to have iPads in the classroom a spark of innovation was lit, said Forbes.

In fact, her classroom is run through her teacher website.

“No longer is a huge book necessary or are papers left in their lockers,” Forbes said. “We have digital means to store and consume like never before and with our Wi-Fi bus this is possible everywhere. It has long been tradition to do your homework on the bus while traveling to sporting or band events. As assignments in all subjects become more digitally engrained, students need the opportunity to access that information readily. Our school district makes it a priority for students to have all the tools necessary to participate in extra-curriculars and achieve academically. The Wi-Fi bus was a no-brainer.”

cussion finished third overall.

How do you feel about the performances?: Well, it was our first competition with cold and blustery weather so we had to overcome our personal issues with the conditions. All of the bands were in the same predicament. Weather-induced performance issues could be found throughout our shows. However, we were lucky that it wasn't raining. I was very proud of our group for pushing through and still giving two great performances. They showed much heart and determination.

What areas need to be improved and how do you feel the band is doing at this point in the season?: We need to keep fine tuning. We found out that we lose some performance energy when the weather interrupts. We are very pleased and excited about how the season has started to unfold. Marching band season is a marathon. We just have to keep pushing to make our product the best it can be.

Date, location and name of next competition: Saturday, Oct. 18 at Bryan Station High School in Lexington. (Submitted by Chris Hedges)

Editor's Note: The popular Woody series by Leigh Anee Florence is back for a 10-week statewide literacy project. This year the pups will exploe Kentucky's history, hertiage as well as fun facts about the Bluegrass state.

Woody: We're All Ears

Chapter 4

“Look Chloe! Section C, Page 1, Column 2 -- the Classified section. Read it, please,” I requested as I pointed to the spot. “Read it out loud so everyone can hear it.”

“Are you, or someone you know, going prematurely gray?” Everyone giggled as I pointed to the correct spot again.

“Do you have what it takes to be the next Miss America?” Chloe read with a confused tone, raising her eyebrows at me, causing another laugh.

“Are you the Craftiest Kentuckian?” Chloe read.

“How well do you know your Kentucky heritage? Are you an expert in the longstanding traditions of the Bluegrass? If so, the Craftiest Kentuckian Competition is for you. There are seven categories to enter: Kentucky music, Kentucky art, Kentucky cuisine, Kentucky literature, Kentucky dancing, Kentucky facts, and Kentucky hobbies. Contestants may enter one or all categories. In addition, contestants may be individuals or a team of two.

Winners in each category will be eligible for the Craftiest Kentuckian Grand Champion. Grand champion will receive various prizes including one night free at your choice of one of Kentucky’s 49 state parks, two free tickets to the Kentucky Derby, dinner at the Governor’s Mansion, and serve as grand marshal in several parades throughout the state. To enter...”

“Grand marshal of a parade? Did you hear that, Chloe? We are going to be riding on a convertible, waving and passing out candy. And we’re going to the Derby too! You’ll have to buy a hat!”

“And I can wear that hat to the Governor’s Mansion too!” Chloe said, beaming.

“Hold it you two,” Dad interjected. “I’m all for this competition, but before you practice your parade wave, we need to focus on the task at hand. We need to put together a plan as well as establish a few rules.”

“Rules?” I said, groaning.

“Yes, son. Once you commit to the contest, there’s no backing out. So if things start getting tough, you aren’t quitting. Are you listening, Woody?” Dad asked, knowing I had a habit of waiting to talk instead of listening. “Remember how we always say that a job worth doing is worth doing right? The same is true for this. It will require time and effort. Are you willing to put forth both?”

“Yes, sir,” Chloe and I said in unison.

“Terrific. Just remember that studying, reading, school work and chores come first. Your mom and I will support you and help you in any way we can.”

I had the best parents on Earth. Chloe and I thanked them and gave them a big hug!

“You know what you two need?” Mr. B. asked with excitement. “You doggies need a project manager.”

“A project manager?” I repeated.

“Yes sire! You need a project manager,” Mr. B. said. “You know, someone to give you some direction, keep you on task, and offer advice and encouragement.”

“That’s what Mom and Dad are for,” I said, causing everyone to chuckle.

“Well sure, but this is the big time, so you need a big-time manager,” Mr. B. explained.

“Who could we get?” I asked.

Mr. B. put this thumbs through the straps of his denim overalls and rocked back and forth on his heels. “Well, I just might be willing to help, but only if you insist.”

“Oh yes! We insist!” Chloe and I shouted.

“Well let’s get to work. What we need is a plan,” Mr. B. pointed out. “You know the ol’ saying, fail to plan and plan to fail. And believe me, we aren’t planning on failing. If we’re going to be the grand champions, we need to learn as much about Kentucky as possible.”

“Mom and Dad are always telling us that we need to be knowledgeable about the state we live in -- not just the facts like knowing the governor or capital, but knowing the history,” I said.

“I knew you had smart folks the moment I met them,” Mr. B. said as he winked. “I have to go get my motorcar before they think I’m never coming back, but before we call it a day, let’s look over this list and decide what categories we are going to concentrate on.”

I picked up the newspaper and silently read the list again: Kentucky music, Kentucky art, Kentucky cuisine, Kentucky literature, Kentucky dancing, Kentucky facts, Kentucky hobbies.

As I read the list, I realized something. My palms became sweaty and my heart was pounding as hard as it was when I thought Mr. B. was a burglar.

“Uh, Mom, Dad, Mr. B., Chloe, we have a problem,” I said, my voice quivering. “We’re not going to be able to enter the contest.”

We're all EARS!

Grant soccer teams vie for district titles

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

The Grant County boys and girls soccer team will have home-field advantage as they try to bring home the 32nd district championship next week.

Both teams will compete in the district tournament at Grant County Middle School.

The Lady Braves will face Walton-Verona at 6 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13 in the tournament opener.

The matchup will be the second consecutive game the Lady Braves faced Walton.

The result of the Oct. 8 game between the teams was not available at press time.

However, the Lady Braves lost 3-2 in double overtime to the Lady Bearcats earlier this season.

“Walton is a solid team, but I am very confident of our ability to beat them,” said Coach David Schmitt. “In our first game against them earlier this year, we had a few starters out with injuries and were also playing on an unfamiliar surface (artificial turf) which really changes the game. Even with those problems, we went through two overtimes and only lost on penalty kicks. Our district game will be on our home field and everyone should be healthy, which I believe gives us the advantage.”

The Lady Braves have a 5-11 record as of Oct. 7 with one remaining game left before the district tournament.

If they are able to beat

Walton in the opening round, the team would move on to the district finals against Simon Kenton and would be guaranteed a spot in the regional tournament.

The Lady Braves lost 2-1 to Simon Kenton earlier this year.

“We’ve been a little inconsistent this season, even within matches,” Schmitt said. “We have played some very good teams tough for a half, but then lost focus. I think that we have some good momentum now following our 3-1 win against Henry County and a great practice. We need to use our remaining regular season game against Walton to continue to build on this.”

Schmitt singled out his two seniors, Bethany Lawrence and Katelyn Mills, as players who have been dedicated and consistently strong for his squad.

For the team to be successful, Schmitt said getting everyone healthy is key.

Keeper Sierra Schmitt is still nursing a sore shoulder, but should be at full speed by the district tournament.

“I think the team just needs to believe in themselves,” Schmitt said. “I think that if we are healthy and united we can play with anyone.”

On the boys side, the Braves will play in the 32nd district championship at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15 against the winner of the Simon Kenton/Walton-Verona opening round game.

Grant has a 9-5 record as of Oct. 7, including wins against both Simon Kenton and Walton.

“It’s great that we got the bye, we get two extra days of practice and more time off to rest our legs instead of having to play two games in three days,” said Coach Garrett Griffith. “Both Walton and Simon Kenton are dangerous teams and while we did beat them in the regular season we need to remain focused and approach each team the same, regardless of regular season success.”

Griffith said the team is prepared to battle for a district championship.

It will be important, defensively, for the players to remain composed and communicate to be successful, he said.

Regardless of the outcome of the district championship game, the Braves record, which gave them a bye into the finals, means they will head to the eighth region tournament as well.

However, that does not change the goal for the Braves.

“It’s great that our regular season success has afforded us the opportunity to qualify for the region, but our goal all season was to win a district championship and that’s what we want to do,” Griffith said. “This group has worked very hard to get this opportunity and it would mean a lot to them if they can win a district title.”

Kayla Mullins attempts to block a kick from a Henry County player. The Lady Braves won 3-1.

Grant runners compete at Williamstown Invite

Not a good day for man nor beast, but Grant County Schools runners did not let the wind, cold and rain stop them from continuing their drive for the finish line at the Williamstown Invitational.

The Lady Braves started the day off early Oct. 4 with solid performances during the coldest part of the day.

They were led by Summer Dearing, placing eighth in 21:51 and Sydney Parker, placing 11th in 21:57.

Eighth grader Molly Howell made a late charge, finishing 13th in 22:30.

Hayley Leach was 24th in 24:08 and Elizabeth Robinson rounded out the Lady Braves’ finishers, placing 51st in 25:57.

The team placed fifth overall.

The Braves were led by Derek Gouge, placing 11th in 18:39 and A.J. Hall placing 16th in 18:51.

Other Brave finishers were Andrew Daniels in 20:09, Cameron Beavers in 20:32 and Jacob Harris in 21:33.

The Braves placed seventh overall as a team.

Jack Foster ran a 22:15 in the Junior Varsity race, placing 24th overall and continuing to shave minutes off of his 5K times.

The middle school boy’s race was led from start to finish by Benn Spratt and Jemison Beavers, placing first and second for the second straight week.

Dean McHugh placed a solid 18th while Andy Schimpff placed 58th.

Jenna Webster placed second in the girl’s sixth and under race, running the 3000 meter race in 11:44.

Angelica Martinez placed 12th in 13:38 and Isabella Calhoun placed 28th in 15:08.

In the boys race, the lead changed many times throughout the race as Brandon Abercrombie kept the pressure on the top sixth grader in the northern Kentucky until the end when he fell a bit short, losing by just two seconds.

He ran 11:02 over the 3000 meter course.

Jessi McHugh ran a 12:15, placing 16th, while

Ethan Lafollette came in at 15:12 and Parker Schimpff ran a solid 16:49.

In the fourth and under 2000 meter races, the Lady Braves were led by Lexus Ward running a 12:28.

The youngest Lady Braves, Maggie Howell in 13:07 and Allie Calhoun in 13:31, ran tough races for the longer distance.

In the boys race, Caleb Coldiron ran 9:34, placing fifth while Josiah McCain in 11:53 and Carson Webster in 12:29 round out the finishers for the Braves.

The teams will be back in action Oct. 11 at the St. Henry Invite at Idlewild Park, the site of the regional meet. Races begin at 9:30 a.m.

Williamstown hosts meet

By Chantel March
Sports Correspondent

Runners faced the coldest day yet in this cross country season as they arrived at the Williamstown Invitational on Oct. 4 at Williamstown High School.

Thirty-six schools were represented by over 700 runners. Many were huddled in blankets as they waited for their race to start, and a few even ran wearing hats and gloves to stay warm.

The day began at 8 a.m. with an open 5K race with six participants.

The overall winner was 14-year-old home school student William Perkins.

In second place and winner of the Participating Coaches award was Grant County Schools’ own Jody O’Nan.

Following this, the varsity and junior varsity 5K races began.

Only four members of the Williamstown High School team were able to compete on Saturday.

Sophomore Michaela Kennedy earned 19th place in the girls’ JV race, and freshman Megan Perkins followed in the 24th spot, achieving another personal best time for herself.

In the boys’ JV race, freshman Harold Fernandez earned 37th place and junior Jeffrey Jackson placed 40th, despite a fall during the race that left him with a minor injury to his ribs.

The middle school was well represented with a first place finish overall in the boys’ division, out of eight teams.

The team’s number one male runner, eighth grader Bradley Perkins took fourth place with a time of 16:05 for the 4000m race.

Seventh graders Caden Tien and Ben Kinsey followed in the sixth and 14th spots, rounding out the top three runners for the middle school boys.

In the middle school girls’ race, Ryan Parsons finished 55th, followed by Emma Gutman in 66th and Emily Perkins in 84th.

In the elementary races, the boys’ sixth grade and under took third place overall, led by sixth grader Elijah Walters in 12th place with a time of 11:56 for the 3K course.

In the girls’ sixth grade and under race, Kasey Hill came in fourth place with a solid time of 12:20.

The day ended with the primary races, in which grades K-4 competed.

The Williamstown girls’ team placed second overall.

There were 17 girls running from WES, led by fourth grader Moriah McCain in seventh place. Ten boys ran from WES in grades K-4, led by third grader Noah Cox in 11th place.

Overall, the meet was a success.

Coaches Mark Kinsey and Christine Thibault were excited and pleased by the numbers of runners and schools participating.

The Williamstown team will be off for fall break, but will be gearing up for regionals mid-October for the elementary and middle grades, and Nov. 1 for high school.

GCHS loses 21-9 in district opener, faces Scott next

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

The Grant County Braves football team dropped their fourth consecutive game in a row, but Coach Kevin Siple said the team is improving. GCHS lost 21-9 to South Oldham at home Oct. 3 for their first district loss. The football team’s record now stands at 1-4-1. “We are really getting better even it is not showing in our record, or wins and losses,” Siple said. “Last year at this time, we were outscored by our opponents by 119 points. This year, we are being outscored by our opponents by 15 points. That’s a tremendous improvement. Last year at this time, when we lost, we lost by an average of 36.2 points per game. This year, in our losses, the margin is only 13.6 points per game. So even though our record is not going to impress anyone, we know as a program, we are making great strides. It takes time to build the foundation if you do it the right way.” Against South Oldham, the Braves got on the scoreboard with 1:55 left in the third quarter after Hunter Lawson scored on a one-yard run. Ronnie Kinman kicked the extra point to cut South Oldham’s lead to 14-7. Down by two touchdowns with 7:23 late in the game, Logan Cooper and Kinman blocked a South Oldham punt inside the opponent’s five-yard line. The ball went through the end zone for a safety and brought the final score of 21-9. “We have to get better on offense, especially in the red zone,” Siple said. “We have to execute our blocking schemes more consistently to move the ball effectively.” Siple said the team is playing smarter than they ever have, citing the Braves’ only two penalties in the game. The team also forced four turnovers on defense and had some big plays to stop South Oldham’s drives. Siple credited linebacker Ryan Turley for leading the team’s defense each week. The Braves now head on the road to play another district opponent at Scott High School at 7 p.m. Oct. 10. The Eagles are 4-1 on the season. “We will need to stop their running game or at least slow them down,” Siple said. “They are 95-percent run, five-percent pass, so this game will be won or lost with our lineman on both sides of the ball. We will also have to play turnover-free football. Lastly, we must be more balanced on offense.” High school football is about making the playoffs, said Siple. In order to do that, the Braves must find a way to win at least one game in their five-team district that includes South Oldham, Scott, Conner and Cooper. “I’m very proud of how far we have come, but we just have to keep grinding away and then our progress will be noted in more wins on the scoreboard,” Siple said.

Celtics compete in championship

A group of elementary boys from Grant County, with the team name Celtics, completed a fall season by winning the elementary division tournament in the Blacktop League in Erlanger. BODY

Black told detectives that he and Howard dug a grave and put Russ in it.

According to the arrest citation, Black said he assisted in burning the grave, along with a mattress taken from the residence Russ was removed from.

The detectives went to the location given by Black and discovered the grave, which had concrete cinder blocks placed over it.

Black also told detectives that he drove and left the deceased man's vehicle at Fort Boonesborough State Park and used the man's ATM card to withdraw $200.

KSP has confirmed that a 2006 green Ford Focus belonging to Russ was recovered by KSP Post 7 in Richmond with the key still in the ignition.

An anonymous call was made to a wrecker service to pick up the abandoned vehicle near the entrance of Fort Boonesborough State Park.

The vehicle is in the evidence impound lot at KSP Post 6 in Dry Ridge to be processed for evidence.

Russ, who was a part-time computer science professor at the University of Cincinnati, was last seen by neighbors on Aug. 17 at his residence on Lemon-Northcutt Road in Grant County.

Russ, who lives alone, was supposed to pick up his best friend for a doctor's appointment on Aug. 25, but again he did not show up.

When his daughter, Kate Russ, arrived at her father's house, his back door was unlocked.

Laundry was still in the washer, waiting to be switched to the dryer.

Russ had a massive heart attack last year that led to three stints being put inside him.

However, his necessary medications were still at home.

Russ' wallet, cellphone and car were all not at his house.

Despite the discovery of Russ' vehicle and a body in Fleming County, KSP said they are awaiting DNA results before positively identifying the remains.

"To be clear, we here at Post 6, are treating this as a missing person's case until conclusive evidence is discovered to prove otherwise," said Lt. Rick Saint-Blancard of Post 6 in Dry Ridge.

Authorities are also waiting on results of an autopsy before determining the cause of death.

While Saint-Blancard said detectives can speculate on a motive for the murder, there is not been anything conclusive as of yet.

KSP did confirm that Black and Howard have criminal histories.

Even with the evidence, Saint-Blancard said there is still hope that the body is not Russ' until a positive ID is made.

"It appears that it could be (Randall Russ)," he said.

Anyone with any information about the whereabouts of Howard is asked to contact Kentucky State Police in Morehead at 606-784-4127 or KSP Post 6 in Dry Ridge at 859-428-1212.

Russ' friends remember a 'giving' man

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

Brad Schadler still recalls the last time he saw his Lemon-Northcutt Road neighbor, Randall Russ.

"He had shaven his beard off and gotten a haircut," Schadler said. "He said it's time to start back to (University of Cincinnati) shortly and 'better clean up my image.' We talked about different things but he seemed just like the average Randy to me."

Not long after, Russ would go missing and is now feared dead after a body was discovered in Fleming County.

Kentucky State Police is awaiting DNA results to positively identify the body that was found in a shallow grave.

However, Charles Black, the man in custody on murder charges, has told detectives Russ was killed by 37-year-old Kevin Howard and he helped bury Russ' body.

"It's very disturbing to say the least," said Schadler, who lives directly across from Russ. "Randy was more harm to himself than to others and no one deserves to die the way Randy did, if indeed those remains are his. But, the people whom he allowed to come into his life was pretty shady characters, who usually was up to no good and possibly that is what led to his demise."

Schadler said Russ moved to Grant County around 2001 after marrying Sharon Monhollen.

A few years later, Monhollen died and Russ was living alone.

Schadler describes Russ as "straight from the city," someone who would have a thousand questions when it came to tractors, yard work and raising tobacco.

"But when it came time to fix

Randall Russ in happier times at a class reunion.

your computer or write a letter or a resume, Randy was on top of it," said Schadler, an electrical technology teacher at the Grant County High School, where Russ substitute taught from time to time. "He was a whiz banger at that type of work. It made him feel good to help me because of all the things I had helped him with."

While Russ did not have a lot in terms of wealth, Schadler said he had a large heart.

The neighbors used to talk three or four times a week.

However, since about February, Schadler said that decreased to three or four times a month.

Still, when Russ was without a vehicle at times, Schadler would give him a ride to GCHS, the store or the bank, if needed.

At first, when he heard Russ was missing, Schadler said he thought he had simply decided to drop everything and move to warmer climate in Florida and live happily ever after.

As details emerged, he feared the worst.

"When I heard that he had been missing that long, that his animals were in the house, that his medicines were sitting on the table, a load of clothes was in the washer, I automatically knew something bad had happened," Schadler said. "He would not have gone and left his animals. It didn't matter if he didn't have electricity or water, he would find a way to make certain that his dogs had food. I knew in my gut something bad had happened. He left either knowing he was coming back or he left against his will."

Schadler said he has never seen murder suspects Black and Howard.

Although he held out hope that Russ would ultimately be found alive, Schadler said he grew pessimistic with each passing day.

"To hear that somebody's missing right across the road from you, under your nose, it was not believable," he said.

Russ was also a frequent visitor to H.O.P.E. (Helping Out People Everywhere) in Dry Ridge, a volunteer organization that provides the needy with food, clothing and other items.

Kim Haubner, founder of H.O.P.E., said Russ would visit once or twice a week.

"He would actually bring people here for help," she said. "He would come here and do magic tricks and tell jokes to people who would come in or to the volunteers. He's very giving. He has a huge heart. If you ask any of the volunteers, they would say they miss his jokes. He always wanted to put a smile on your face."

Russ would go to a rehabilitation center in Pendleton County and bring people to H.O.P.E. when they got out to get food and clothes, Haubner said.

Haubner's son frequently cut Russ' grass and would take him food.

The family would occasionally pick Russ up when he would walk to GCHS to substitute teach.

"He was like family," said Haubner, fighting back tears.

A week after he went missing, H.O.P.E. held a candlelight prayer vigil for Russ.

Hopeful he would return home, Haubner said that hearing the news that Russ' body may have been found is shocking.

"He is missed greatly," she said. "We were just talking about him about how we wished he just walked in the door telling jokes. His presence is going to be missed greatly."

DRIVER

He was pronounced dead shortly after his arrival, according to the sheriff's office.

The train conductor, whose name has not been released, was transported to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Florence for non-life threatening injuries.

The Boone County Sheriff's Office Accident Reconstruction Unit is investigating the collision.

One of Hess' children, Danny Hess, posted a tribute to his dad on social media.

"If I could ever be half the man my father was, I'll be doing great!" Danny wrote. "He woke up at 4 every morning, worked all day to provide for his family and even when bills, car problems, broken this or that's popped up, not once did I ever hear him complain. He would just grit his teeth so to speak and get things done. If you needed anything you couldn't get done, my dad would show (up) with a smile on his face. He was the kind of man who would truly give you the shirt off his back, or the last couple dollars in his wallet. To say that he put others first is simply a huge understatement. That man literally sacrificed life and limb for the ones he loved, and I am proud to say Steve Hess is my father. I know we never really said it out (loud) that often but I love ya, dad. I'm already missing you like hell!"

Hess leaves behind a wife, two daughters and two sons.

Visitation will be from 4 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9 at Elliston-Stanley Funeral Home in Williamstown. Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Friday at the funeral home.

Burial will be 2 p.m. at Short Creek Baptist Church Cemetery.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Steve Hess Memorial Fund, c/o Elliston-Stanley Funeral Home, P.O. Box 130, Williamstown, KY 41097.

HELPING HANDS

The food pantry serves 50 to 60 families per week, Jones said.

Helping Hands operates a thrift store at 1398 N. Main in Williamstown. Proceeds from the thrift store are used to purchase food.

The thrift store has been in operation about five years.

"It is going well," Jones said. "We've got good community support and donations, typically lots of clothing. We've gotten compliments from the community about the store."

Helping Hands, which began many years ago as a coalition of local churches to assist families in need, also distributes food through the USDA's commodity program, which serves about 100 families monthly.

Jones said Helping Hands needs more churches to get involved and more volunteers.

"Not only is there a need financially, but we need people," he said.

Jones said the organization currently has three other board members besides himself and would like to double that number.

"Last fall we had plenty of food but since then, it's dried up and we've had a hard time keeping our pantry stocked," Jones said. "Canned goods are what we need right now or we're going to have to purchase more to meet the need."

For more information about the organization or to become a volunteer, call Jones at 859-824-4221.
